VOL. XIII. NO. 20.

GREENVILLE, KY., THURSDAY, JUNE 29, 1911.

50c. PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE

POULTRY NOTES BY C.M. BARNITZ RIVERSIDE, PA.

WELCOME, SWEET BIRDS!

There's old robin at my window Singing his sweet song again. Welcome back, you dear old birdie, With your merry, cheerful strain. You may eat your fill of cherries, You may strip the branches bare, If you'll call me at the sunrise With your sweet, soul cheering air.

Hark the lark! Oh, see him yonder Soaring right into the sun! Will he sing his little heart out Ere his morning praise is done? Welcome back, sweet music teacher, I shall join your joyful praise. To the God who made the springtime And the golden summer days.

There's the thrush! Just hear him warble! Listen to his silver bell. Hear the linnet, wren and starling, Mocking birds, in wood and dell. Glad to see you back, dear birdies, You are part of God's great plan To make earth a second Eden And redeem poor fallen man. C. M. BARNITZ.

IDENTIFICATION MARKS.

Grandma had a habit of docking her hens' tails to keep them out of the neighbors' coops and cook pots and, of course, got "suspicious and mad as a wet hen" when Sarah Ann Somebody clipped her chickens, conclusions ditto. Must be awfully humiliating for a proud Biddy to become a bobtail, for her peroration is not only ornamental, but useful.

It weighs her feelings. Does she lay a big egg or lay low some sassy henpecker—then her tail stands straight in the air. Is she sick or licked—down trails the flag at half mast. Besides, it's her steering gear, and without her tail she may sail to a sad finale.

Then others add variety to the landscape by painting their hens red, white and blue. Spring rains soon wash off these autumnal tints; some hen fancier innocently appropriates another's calico colored cackler; then the feathers fly and the millennial dawn gets a setback. My friend, to avoid a punch, buy a punch.

A WEB PUNCH AND PUNCHED WEB.

The one in the picture cost 50 cents, and that foot web was marked five years ago when the hen was a day old chick.

Leg bands are most too expensive for large flocks.

They must be changed too often to fit the growing fowl and they will come off.

That punch mark stays. It shows in a moment the blood line to which the fowl belongs, it records the age, it identifies your stock when found on thieves and may help convict a midnight neck wringer, and, besides, if your neighbor dares you over the fence to prove your goods that little private mark quick does the trick.

DON'TS.

Don't have too broad a roost slat. Crooked toes.

Don't spend all your profit to win a silver cup. Remember, utility is the foundation of prosperity.

Don't blarney in business. While you may catch some with a sweetened hook you will from others get a sour look. The goods themselves will have a tale to tell, and if they're good and advertised they'll sell.

Don't buy roosters with warts on their face, comb or wattles. Chicken-pox.

Don't eat hens with white scale and scurf on head, neck and body. Favus.

Don't cook a fowl with gray patches in its throat and swollen eye. Diphtheritic roup.

Don't dress a hen with dark comb and soiled fluff. Diarrhea.

Don't buy dressed chickens with full crops. Waste. Unlawful to sell, crop may smelt.

Don't get weary in well doing. Pay your subscription in advance and hurrah for the chance.

Don't forget that at Thanksgiving geese are at their best and most in demand.

PASTERNS OF THE DRAFT HORSE.

The time was not very long ago when a draft horse was supposed to have a short, upright pastern and an upright shoulder. The inference was that a horse with a short, upright pastern was stronger than a horse that had a long sloping pastern. I am not prepared to deny that statement, says Dr. Henry G. Reed. I don't know but that there is something in it. If you take a draft horse with a straight up and down formation there is a possibility, everything else being equal, that that horse might move a heavier load than a horse with a springing pastern. Why do not we want that? That is what draft horses are for, and if they have a formation which will enable them to move a heavier load why is not that the correct formation? It is simply because these horses will not wear.

You all know that the best of these draft horses get into the city; they spend their lives drawing drays up and down the paved streets of the city, and every time the horse with a straight up and down formation puts his foot on the hard pavement it is a straight up and down impact, and the horse will become sore before he is on the pavement any considerable time.

Take a horse with a pastern fairly long and sloping; every time he puts his foot down there is a spring which relieves the concussion, and as a result of that the hoof will stand the wear and tear a much greater period than a horse with a short up and down formation. We like a fairly sloping shoulder for the same reason. We ought not to be carried away with the fact that because a horse has a straight up and down pastern and shoulder he is a better draft horse. The market today does not want it, though I think possibly in some cases a long pastern and sloping shoulder are becoming a fad.

The Shire mare Finstall Bonnie Princess, herewith shown, was a first prize winner at the international show last year. The showing of Shires at the international was about the biggest thing of its kind ever pulled off on the American continent. This strong, heavily built, active English horse seems to be gaining a good deal of favor among American horsemen in recent years. A noticeable feature was the large number of grays exhibited in striking contrast to the solid dark colors prevalent a few years ago.

I have seen horses that were too long and sloping in the pastern and sloping too much in the shoulder, but we want to get away from that short, upright formation, and we ought not to go too far the other way—there is always danger of going to the other extreme. Here we have a mare with a fairly well sloping pastern and a fairly sloping shoulder, far from the old fashioned formation and not at all too much for the up to date draft horse.

About Rickets.

Rickets—or "progressive rachitis," as veterinarians call it—is a disease the cause of which is not fully determined. It is, however, most common in regions where the soil is deficient in lime salts and in cases where the mare has been fed corn largely when in foal. This disease does not always, as many suppose, manifest itself soon after the birth of the colt or other young animal, especially when it takes on the progressive form of the disease. There is no known specific for it. However, many recover when fed liberally on oats.

HOW THE SILO HELPS.

By means of the silo more of the food value of forage can be saved than by any other method of preservation.

The silo affords the means of keeping in small compass a large quantity of forage safe from the weather and in convenient form to feed.

Forage placed in the silo keeps at a uniform quality, whereas field cured forage constantly deteriorates.

Considering the food value saved, the silo affords the cheapest means for forage preservation.

Because of the palatability and succulence silage possesses, higher feeding value than does the same forage dry cured. Conservative feeders estimate that the silo doubles the value of the forage crop.

Silage can be used in summer and fall to supplement pasture. It has been conclusively proved that the silo effects a considerable saving in the cost of production of beef, mutton and milk.

The silo enables the farmer to keep more live stock, which promotes the rotation of crops and the preservation of soil fertility.

The judge should have waited until the Fourth to have exploded the powder trust.

There is one redeeming feature about the English crowning—Alfred Austin launched no coronation ode.

The world is so full of a number of things that we may be able to toddle along, even if the coronation is missing from the front pages.

Englishmen who witnessed the great naval review off Spithead last week should not draw the hasty inference from the size of Uncle Sam's battleship Delaware that the vessel was named in honor of the biggest state in the union.

Chicago is making great progress in a sanitary way. Besides swatting the flies, it has decided now to prohibit the roller towel. Furthermore, Chicago believes in the individual drinking cup, free bathing beaches, open air sleeping, and a sane Fourth.

Postal savings banks will serve their purpose if they do no more than keep in this country the money that hitherto has been sent back by immigrants to the government banks in the countries from which they came. Uncle Sam can make a fairly accurate guess as to what those savings foot up annually.

ONE of the great railroad systems is getting into the good roads game, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road having started the construction of model roads leading from its stations at many points. The whole expense is being borne by the company, and already the example is being followed by cities and villages, extensions being made right along by the communities which realize the vast benefits of perfect highways.

THOSE retail lumber dealers who published a list of the manufacturers and wholesalers that they did not trade with and did not wish others to trade with are now in a fair way to discover that anti-boycott laws were not made for the wage earners only, but apply to merchants also. It is not the first time that the Courts have pointed this out, but it seems to have escaped the attention of the Lumber Secretaries' Bureau of Information.

THOMAS H. PAYNTER has withdrawn from the race for the nomination of United States Senator. This action is not a surprise to the people of the State; the real surprise was that he hung on long enough to put up his fee, which he did by a narrow margin before the expiration of the time allowed. This leaves a clear field for Hon. Ollie James, who will receive his party's honor, which is equivalent to election. Paynter was doomed from the beginning of the race, as his record in the Senate has always been with the interests, against the people. This had developed strong opposition among the people to his continuance, and when he voted to whitewash Lorimer, a man identified with the capitalists, but a member of the Republican party, the Democracy of the State was aroused to more open and vigilant opposition, and Paynter's political horizon was narrowed. The time has arrived when members of all political parties are demanding that its leaders be clean, decent and honest, and no man has chance for preferment unless his record will stand the closest investigation with credit. James' many friends are rejoicing over his pleasant situation, and his record in Congress carries assurance that he will enlarge his usefulness to Kentucky.

THE U. S. Patent Office will soon issue certificate No. 1,000,000, and it is being reserved for an invention of notable worth, at the special request of President Taft.

The Cement Industry in 1910.

The statistics of cement production in 1910, as reported by Ernest F. Burchard, of the United States Geological Survey, indicate that the cement industry ranks within the first eight extractive industries in the United States, the value of the cement produced being exceeded only by the value of the coal, pig iron, petroleum and gas, clay products, copper, gold, and stone.

On the first of January, 1911, according to responses to telegraphic requests sent by the Survey to the larger cement companies, it was apparent that the Portland cement industry had made a new high record in 1910, and it was then estimated by Mr. Burchard that the production for the year might reach 75,000,000 barrels. Few other estimates ventured beyond this limit and that it has been exceeded by more than half a million barrels, as is shown by the following statistics, will doubtless prove surprising to nearly everyone closely in touch with the cement industry.

The total quantity of Portland, natural, and puzzolan cements produced in the United States during 1910 was 76,934,675 barrels, valued at $68,052,771. Compared with 1909, when the production was 66,689,715 barrels, valued at $53,610,563, the year 1910 showed an increase of 10,244,960 barrels, or 15.3 per cent, in quantity, and of $14,442,208, or 26.9 per cent, in value. The increase in quantity is one of the largest ever recorded, and the fact that the increase in value was proportionately higher indicates that trade conditions were slightly more satisfactory than during 1909.

The Nutritive Value of Cheese.

Uncle Sam has come to the defense of cheese. He has been conducting exhaustive experiments to determine the food value of cheese, and his conclusions are these:

That a pound of cheese is equal in food value to two pounds of fresh beef or eggs and to three pounds of fresh fish.

That the despised "full skim" cheese is almost as nutritive as the finest full cream cheese.

That highly flavored cheese don't amount to much as "condiments," that is as stimulants to digestion.

That green cheese is quite as digestible as old cheese.

That the popular idea that cheese is constipating is not in accord with fact.

Government experiment stations have made tests that establish scientifically the truth about the food value of the different kinds of cheese—including the above stated facts.

In view of the results obtained Uncle Sam wonders why his folks don't eat more cheese. In his report on the subject he says:

"All kinds of cheese, even the very highest flavored and so-called condimental cheese, have a high food value. But the so-called condimental value of cheese eaten in small quantities as a stimulus to the digestion of other foods was not demonstrated.

"The Swiss, who are a very healthy people, eat largely of cheese; in fact, bread and cheese form the greater part of the diet of many of them. Many other European races eat largely of cheese.

"Heretofore cheese has seldom been regarded by American consumers as a possible cheap staple food. They use it as a luxury, in small quantities at comparatively rare intervals. Americans have much to learn from Europeans of some of the possibilities of preparing cheese dishes."

A man is what he is used to.—Hippocrates.

Philip, father of Alexander, had a servant whose sole business it was to remind him that he was a human. It is said, accordingly, that he never went from the house, and having returned, never gave audience to any one without first this servant would say to him three times in a loud voice: "Philip, thou art a man!"

Man is a compendium of the universe; in his reason he is an image of God; in his nutritive and reproductive functions he belongs to the animal order; he grows like a vegetable; besides he has much of the inert substance of minerals.—Pythagoras.

Epicurus said: Thou art an animal carrying a corpse.—Marcus Aurelius.

To men, man is a wolf, not a man.—Plautus.

Man, thou canst only be compared to the dirt from which thou wast made.—Guerrazzi.

The nature a people is first rude, then severe, then kind, then delicate, then dissolute.—Vico.

I have read, I know not where, that man is a beast, humanity divine. It is not true. As for me, I have always had to fix my eye upon the isolated, individual man, to reconcile myself to men in the mass.—Tarchetti.

It was the tragedian, Crebillon, who, when asked why he kept so many dogs about him, said: "Since I have come to know men, I prefer dogs."

"It is well said that man has no greater enemy than himself.—Firezuola.

Every man is a poet and an artist in the first years of his life; an arid desert in his last years.—Tarchetti.

The immediate end of humanity is the harmonious development of all its faculties and forces.—Mazzini.

Behold the life of man: At 20 a peacock; at 30, a lion; at 40, a camel (burden bearer); at 50, a serpent (wise); at 60, a dog; at 70, a monkey; at 80, nothing.—Gracian.

Men could not long live in society unless they were dupes of one another.—LaRochehoucauld.

The honest man, deceived in his illusions, but still honest, is a man par excellence.—Chamfort.

A WEDDING SONG.

And on her lover's arm she leant,
And 'round her waist she felt it fold.
And far across the hill they went
In that new world which is the old;
Across the hills and far away
Beyond their utmost purple rim,
And deep into the daisy day
The happy princess followed him.
And o'er them many a sliding star
And many a merry wind was borne,
And streamed through many a golden bar,
The twilight melted in the morn,
And o'er them many a flowing range
Of vapor buoyed the crescent bark,
And rapt thro' many a rosy change
The twilight died into the dark.
And o'er the hills and far away,
Beyond the utmost purple rim,
Beyond the night, across the day,
Thro' all the world she followed him.

Muhlenberg, which has so much wealth of mineral, and ranking well in agriculture, needs a system of permanent roads, this being without any doubt the most important thing for the consideration and endeavor of our people.

Vacuum Cleaners in Coal Mines.

Vacuum cleaners are said to be the means that will in the future be used for the purpose of cleaning coal mines of the dangerous coal dust that has often been the cause of so much explosion, and through which many miners have lost their lives. The machines are stationed at a suitable distance from the scene of operation. Two men, each holding the "suction cleaners," then go over the mine, drawing the dust from the top sides, and bottom through the hose into a car or truck in waiting, which is then taken out of the mine and dumped. Expert mechanics are of opinion that one machine could thoroughly clean a half-mile of entries in one night.

Independence Day Disasters.

Independence Day is coming; day of powder-poisoning and lockjaw; day of hospitals and ambulances; day of mutilation and fire and death. If there is anything that is sane in the American people it is the growing revolt against our insane manner of celebrating the Fourth of July. It might be called "Incendiaries' Day"; for on that day the fire fiend runs riot. No man having any public responsibility fails to dread it. No fire department gets through the day, and the nights on both sides of it, without exhaustion. It is doubtful if on some fifth of July an entire city may not complacently burn itself up in the faces of firemen and fire horses too exhausted by silly firecracker fires the day before to cope with it. The fire-fighting apparatus of our cities and towns is so overtaxed by the numberless calls which begin on the evening of July 3d that response to possible summons for help by neighboring towns or cities is impossible.

Never an "Independence" Day but scores of human beings are made dependent for life. Life and limb are jeopardized by explosives thrown from windows above the level of the street, setting fire to clothing and menacing the eyesight of those passing, while upon the child, who in his innocent love of noise and objective demonstration responds to our present absurd kind of celebration, falls the heavy hand of disaster. When our civilization was not so complex, it was possible for those who had the courage to leave their homes to the mercy of possible conflagrations, to shut them up and escape to the quiet of the country. Not so to-day. The trolley car and the automobile follow the seeker after peace to his country retreats, throwing explosives at his head as they roar past in their reckless irresponsibility.

And for what? Nobody stops to inquire. Nobody any longer cares. We have gotten wholly away from the educational significance of "Independence" Day, and lost ourselves in an orgy of fire and noise.

Dr. C. B. Martin and Dr. L. P. Moore have associated themselves for the practice of medicine, and Dr. Martin will now be found in the office in the LaMeade opera house that has been occupied by Dr. Moore. The new arrangement makes a strong and popular firm.

The Madisonville Daily Hustler last week issued a three-section industrial, historical illustrated edition of Hopkins county that was a credit to the paper and to the county. Our sister county is moving along all right, and is developing rapidly along many lines. It is not likely, however, that they will overhaul us in the production of coal, as we are far in the lead and are progressing at a greater rate in development.

McCracken has the largest stock of dials for timepieces ever carried in the county, and can fit anything from the court house clock to a toy watch.

A woman in town is getting much chafing just now from her husband and friends over a recent purchase she made. She had been hearing from her friends of the advantages of an electric iron, and decided that she wanted one, so she made a buy. When she got the article home she tried to attach it to the telephone, as she supposed that was where the current was secured. But she learned differently, and as the house is not wired for lights, there is an idle sad iron around the home, also a sad woman, for her friends are making existence a misery.

A Sight Like This Would Be a Glorious Scene.

Muhlenberg has been spending something like $15,000 per year for the past seven years on its dirt roads. The sum is not decreasing, and the condition of the roads is only slightly improving. A century of such work will bring only slight gain. What is needed now is machinery with which to build permanent roads. A road roller, which can be used as a traction engine also, a rock crusher, some dump-bottom wagons, etc., would put us in position to utilize much of our own material, and aid wonderfully in handling and placing stone shipped here. This would be making an investment of our road funds, while the present system is only an expense that is constantly recurring.

THE AMERICAN FLAG.

WHEN freedom from her mountain height
Unfurled her standard to the air
She tore the azure robe of night
And set the stars of glory there!
She mingled with its gorgeous dyes
The milky baldric of the skies
And striped its pure, celestial white
With streakings of the morning light;
Then from his mansion in the sun
She called her eagle bearer down
And gave into his mighty hand
The symbol of her chosen land.

Majestic monarch of the cloud
Who rear'st aloft thy regal form
To hear the tempest trumpings loud
And see the lightning lances driven,
When strive the warriors of the storm
And rolls the thunder drum of nation,
Child of the sun, to thee 'tis given
To guard the banner of the free.
To hover in the sulphur smoke,
To ward away the battle stroke
And bid its blendings shine afar
Like rainbows on the cloud of war,
The harbingers of victory!

Flag of the brave, thy folds shall fly,
The sign of hope and triumph high!
When speaks the signal trumpet tone
And the long line comes gleaming on,
Ere yet the lifeblood, warm and wet,
Has dimmed the glistening bayonet,
Each soldier eye shall brightly turn
To where thy sky born glories burn
And, as his springing steps advance,
Catch war and vengeance from the glance.

And when the cannon mouthings loud
Heave in wild wreaths the battle shroud
And gory sabers rise and fall
Like shoots of flame on midnight's pall,
Then shall thy meteor glances glow
And covering foes shall shrink beneath
Each gallant arm that strikes below
That lovely messenger of death.

Flag of the seas, on ocean wave
Thy stars shall glitter o'er the brave;
When death, careering on the gale,
Sweeps darkly round the belled sail
And frightened waves rush wildly back
Before the broadside's reeling rack,
Each dying wanderer of the sea
Shall look at once to heaven and thee
And smile to see thy splendors fly
In triumph o'er his closing eye.

Flag of the free heart's hope and home,
By angel hands to valor given!
Thy stars have lit the welkin dome
And all thy hues were born in heaven.
Forever float that standard sheet!
Where breathes the foe but falls before us,
With freedom's soil beneath our feet
And freedom's banner streaming o'er us?

Announcements of 1912 models being made now by many automobile factories show great improvements and refinements, greater advances having been made than in the 1910 and 1911 models combined.

In addition to this, radical reductions are being announced in price, and at this rate it will be only a few years more when any man who keeps a horse and buggy can afford to keep a car. This has been the biggest year in the history of the trade, and every factory is increasing its equipment and buildings, in the effort to keep up with the heavier demand that is to come next season.

Shoots At Light, Pays $20 Fine.

Chas. Smith, of Drakesboro, member of a colored baseball team which was passing through here in a hack about 9 o'clock last Saturday night, took a dare from his associates and tried to shoot out one of the arch lights near corner of Cherry and Hopkinsville streets. His aim was not true or his pistol was a poor one, for he missed, but he made enough noise to rouse the neighborhood, and when the hack reached the public square officers were right after him. Smith had left the hack, but was soon found, and at his trial before Judge DeWitt pleaded guilty, drawing a $20 fine with costs. It is said that Smith was drinking, or he would not have done the shooting, as he is a quiet fellow of good reputation.

Giant Engine On I. C.

Engine No. 1039, weighing with its tender 371,600 pounds, was put in service on the I. C. last Tuesday, bringing train 101 out of Louisville at noon. It is the first of a troupe of six which will be run between Louisville and Fulton, pulling the new all-steel trains which will soon be put on. These engines are of the largest type passenger style, and are capable of great speed, at the same time have great power, capable of hauling a dozen coaches at a speed of 50 miles an hour. The I. C. is bringing this division right up in line with its Chicago-New Orleans equipment, as its business through this section is something immense, and is growing every year. The roadbed is being improved all the time, and a faster schedule will be put into effect by fall, it is thought.

Miss Essie Miller has returned from Louisville, where she is in the Masonic Orphan's Home, and will spend the vacation here with her sister, Mrs. James W. Barkley.

Last Fourth of July there were 131 people killed and 2,923 were wounded in our foolish observance of the day. Many of the wounded were in worse shape than if they had died, as they will live miserable lives of blind helplessness, suffering until the end comes. The property loss from fires ran into the hundreds of thousands.

Mr. J. L. Rogers returned the latter part of the week from Hallier, in Pike county, where he has been for six weeks supervising the construction of coke ovens on coal property in which he is interested. Eastern Kentucky is jumping along lively in coal development, and Mr. Rogers' holdings are well located and very valuable.

Politics is warming up rapidly in this section in the Democratic ranks, and many forces are at work to bring out a heavy vote at the primary next Saturday. One of the surprises of the past few days is the wonderful strength that is being developed by Hon. Wm. Addams, candidate for the nomination for Governor. Reports indicate a tidal wave all over the State for him, and it is thought he will defeat McCreary, who until a short while ago appeared to have the race won, slowed down and looking back.

Kitty League Ball Game, Central City, July 9th.

On July 9th the Clarksville and Henderson (formerly McLeansboro) clubs will play the game scheduled for that date at Central City Athletic Park in Central City, Kentucky. A large crowd is expected to attend this game as these two clubs are first division clubs, and both are playing good ball at present, and the followers of the game in Central City and surrounding community, who enjoy seeing good ball games, should not let this opportunity pass, as this no doubt will be one of the best games played here this season.

This is no amateur game, but is one of the regular championship games played between these two teams, and the reason it is to be played in Central City is that the law will not permit Sunday ball to be played in Clarksville, where this game is scheduled to be played.

The grandstand at Athletic Park has recently been repaired and rendered more comfortable by placing a hood over it which extends out about sixteen feet and keeps the sun out of the grandstand until late in the afternoon, but in no way obstructs the view of the diamond.

Ladies are to be admitted to the grandstand on this day without extra charge.

Trains on the I. C., north and south, have been practically assured to accommodate those who may attend from either direction, and the L. & N. regular schedule is such as to accommodate everybody who may desire to come on that road. The game will be called at 2:45, thus enabling everybody to stay through the entire game and catch their train after the game is over.

Auto Causes Runaway.

Last Saturday an auto carrying Messrs. Ernest Dunkerson, Lyle Robinson and Clyde Ruby, of Madisonville, to Mud river to join a party of friends who were there fishing, caused the wreck of a buggy and the death of a mule. The car passed through here about dark, and when it reached Ennis the party met a buggy in which were Mrs. Lizzie Jackson and her son, Wiseman. The mule was frightened and bolted from the road, upsetting the buggy and unseating the occupants. Mrs. Jackson was injured, being bruised and shaken pretty badly, but was carried home by some other parties who were also returning from church. The auto party did not stop until after passing the wreck, and did not know until afterward that the mule had killed himself. In fact, the owner supposed the mule had gone home, and even after it was not there that night, paid no attention to it until next morning, when the animal was still missing, and he then went back to the wreck, and in a few yards from the road found the body of his mule, who had bolted into a tree and broken his neck. This information was conveyed to the autoists, and it is reported that they have agreed to settle all damages, paying for the mule and for injuries sustained. This is the first serious accident that has occurred in this county from the use of automobiles on our roads, and this case appears to have been unavoidable, no blame of recklessness attaching to the automobile party.

Death of Mrs. Wm. H. O'Bryan.

Mrs. Wm. H. O'Bryan died last Saturday night at 9:30 o'clock at her home in Madisonville, after an illness of some weeks from heart trouble. For some time her condition had been recognized as helpless, and her only daughter Mrs. George Fentes of South Carrollton, had been with her. Deceased was well known here, where she had lived for many years, and she had a host of friends who loved her on account of her many Christian virtues, she being a consistent member of the Baptist church. Her body was laid to rest beside that of her son, Herbert, at Madisonville, at 3 o'clock last Sunday afternoon, and there was a large audience at the service. Her husband and daughter have the sympathy of our people in their sorrow.

Mrs. J. N. Lyon, who has been confined to her room by nervous prostration for some weeks, is improving nicely, and will shortly be up.

SWAT THE FLY! IT'S A DEADLY PERIL.

California early took a determined stand in the warfare on the house fly, no one there has contributed more practical suggestions for the extermination of this dangerous insect than Prof. W. B. Herms of the state university. Prof. Herms has made a study of the fly and its dangerous qualities as a carrier of disease for many years and the results of his investigations have been embodied in books, scientific treatises, and bulletins.

Many of the latter have been reprinted and circulated by the Berkeley, Cal., board of health, and this has resulted in the practical extermination of the house fly from that town and its suburbs. That body passed a stringent ordinance regulating the erection and maintenance of stables, and violators are rigidly punished. This relates to the screening of stable doors and windows and the covering of manure pits. The contents of the latter are not only kept from flies but are removed often and when in the pits are treated with lime or decoctions of kerosene and acids which kill the flies' eggs. The open manure pile is banished.

On the surrounding ranches the manure is not allowed to accumulate but is scattered on the fields and exposed to the sun. Empty town lots are kept clear of rubbish which will attract flies as good breeding places.

Petroleum oils, sold on the market as "miscible oils," "spray emulsions," etc., are applied on manure and other material in the proportion of one part of oil to ten parts of water.

Prof. Herms says: "Strike at the root of the evil. The house fly breeds in horse manures, kitchen offal, and the like. Dispose of these materials in such a way that the house fly cannot propagate."

"Fly proof closets, bins, and garbage cans must be used. Stalls must be kept clean of manure; stable yards and horse lots must be cleaned and scraped."

"Direct methods of control are simpler and incalculably more effective than temporary, ever-to-be-repeated methods as would be the application of insecticides."

"Manures already infested with larvae may be treated (drenched) with a good insecticidal distillate emulsion (one part of ten of water) which has a high flash point. Cresol compounds used five times as strong as rated for dips are also useful, as is chloride of lime if used liberally. Both, however, are relatively expensive."

"Flies collected on the windows may be sprayed with one of several proprietary insecticides, a 5 per cent to 8 per cent solution of formaldehyde (a nonpoisonous liquid) sweetened with sugar, honey, or the like, and placed in shallow vessels on window sills and tables serves as a good substitute for arsenical and cobalt fly poisons."

We leave it to you to say how good is our furniture polish. We know it is the best we can buy, and sell under a guarantee. If not the best you ever used, return and get your money quick—and pleasantly.

Feet and Sanity.

Statistics prove that sanity can be measured by the feet both in men and women, but the rules for the two sexes are the inverse of one another. In the Paris Academy of Sciences M. Edmond Perrier read a report by Messrs. A. Marie and MacAuliffe, which appears conclusive. Sane men have large feet, and sane women small feet. Conversely, beware of the small footed male and the large-footed female. Out of 100 normal men, according to the report, 18 have small feet, and out of 100 insane men only 24 have large feet. The proportions for women are most exactly reversed. Twenty-three sane women of 100 have large feet, and, on the contrary, only 18 per cent. of mad women have small feet. The ancient popular opinion that a small foot is a beauty in women is thus proved sound. Even the Chinese may be justified if, by reducing a woman's foot, you may increase her sanity.
